YOUR CHILD'S AMAZING BRAIN.

TIME: 8:45am to 10:30am
WHEN: Thursday, 12/10/09
WHERE: WCLL small gym
GRADES: K4 - 5th

Presentation by: Parents Plus

Imagine that a child's brain is like a house that has just been built. The walls are up, the doors are hung. Then you go to the store and buy electrical wiring, switches, a fuse box and other electrical supplies. You bring these supplies to the new house and set them on the floor. Will they work? Probably not. You first must string the wiring and hook up all of the connections. This is quite similar to the way our brains are formed. We are born with as many nerve cells as stars in the Milky Way galaxy. But these cells have not yet established a pattern of wiring between them — they haven't made their connections.

Come find out how to create the best blue print for your child's brain so they can experience the most out of their education and life!

Flu is a serious contagious disease.

Each year in the United States, on average, more than 200,000 people are hospitalized and 36,000 people die from seasonal flu complications.

This flu season could be worse.

There is a new and very different flu virus spreading worldwide among people called novel or new H1N1 flu. This virus may cause more illness or more severe illness than usual.

Flu-like symptoms include:

- fever (usually high)
- headache
- extreme tiredness
- dry cough
- runny or stuffy nose
- muscle aches
- sore throat
- vomiting
- sometimes diarrhea

CDC Says

“Take 3” Steps

To Fight The Flu

These actions will protect against the new H1N1 too!

For more information, visit

www.flu.gov

or call

800-CDC-INFO.

Department of Health and Human Services
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

CS205261-A

CDC urges you to take 3 action steps to protect against the flu.

Take time to get vaccinated.

■ CDC recommends a yearly seasonal flu vaccine as the first and most important step in protecting against seasonal flu.

■ The seasonal flu vaccine protects against the three seasonal viruses that research suggests will be most common.

■ Vaccination is especially important for people at high risk of serious flu complications, including young children, pregnant women, people with chronic health conditions like asthma, diabetes or heart and lung disease and people 65 years and older.

■ Seasonal flu vaccine also is important for health care workers, and other people who live with or care for high risk people to prevent giving the flu to those at high risk.

■ A seasonal vaccine will not protect you against novel H1N1.

■ A new vaccine against novel H1N1 is being produced and will be available in the coming months as an option for prevention of novel H1N1 infection.

■ People at greatest risk for novel H1N1 infection include children, pregnant women, and people with chronic health conditions like asthma, diabetes or heart and lung disease.

Take everyday preventive actions.

■ Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw the tissue in the trash after you use it.

■ Wash your hands often with soap and water, especially after you cough or sneeze. Alcohol-based hand cleaners are also effective.*

■ Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Germs spread this way.

■ Try to avoid close contact with sick people.

■ If you are sick with flu-like illness, CDC recommends that you stay home for at least 24 hours after your fever is gone except to get medical care or for other necessities. (Your fever should be gone without the use of a fever-reducing medicine.) Keep away from others as much as possible. This is to keep from making others sick.

■ While sick, limit contact with others to keep from infecting them.

*Though the scientific evidence is not as extensive as that on hand washing and alcohol-based sanitizers, other hand sanitizers that do not contain alcohol may be useful for killing flu germs on hands in settings where alcohol-based products are prohibited.

Take flu antiviral drugs if recommended.

■ If you get seasonal or novel H1N1 flu, antiviral drugs can treat the flu.

■ Antiviral drugs are prescription medicines (pills, liquid or an inhaled powder) that fight against the flu by keeping flu viruses from reproducing in your body.

■ Antiviral drugs can make your illness milder and make you feel better faster. They may also prevent serious flu complications.

■ Antiviral drugs are not sold over-the-counter and are different from antibiotics.

■ Antiviral drugs may be especially important for people who are very sick (hospitalized) or people who are sick with the flu and who are at increased risk of serious flu complications, such as pregnant women, young children and those with chronic health conditions.

■ For treatment, antiviral drugs work best if started within the first 2 days of symptoms.

Inlanta Mortgage would like to introduce Laura Kopan as a partner of A-B Credit Union helping you and your family with all of today's mortgage programs. Like the Credit Union, Inlanta Mortgage is determined to providing you with the best customer service, we take pride in providing our communities with several ways to save money for the future. We welcome and encourage all students, parents, and staff to take advantage of our Services by contacting us Today! To get started I've included an article on:

Tips to get your Loan Approved

What is important to lenders?

Inlanta Mortgage wants to help you understand what is important to lenders, and why. These tips will help you better manage some key aspects of your finances so that you can get your loan approved.

Not every applicant is approved for a home loan the first time he or she applies. For a variety of reasons, even after a lot of hard work, sometimes a loan just can't be approved. It may have to do with the applicant's credit or savings history, employment stability, debt structure, or the value of the home. The good news is that a denial is merely a detour, not a roadblock. Purchasing a home takes planning, discipline and hard work! Follow these tips and with our assistance, homeownership is not out of reach.

Establish a consistent record of paying bills on time.

Before making a loan the size of a home loan, most lenders will want to review how you have handled your credit in the past. This includes all credit accounts, including utilities, revolving debt (credit cards, etc.), and installment debt (car loans, student loans, etc.). It is critical for you to bring all overdue bills up to date immediately and begin paying them on time in a consistent manner.

Establish a consistent record of steady employment.

Lenders are more likely to look favorably on an applicant who has been in the same (or similar) line of work for generally two or more years. If you have been working steadily for less than two or more years, expect the lender to ask why. There are many acceptable reasons, including:

- You recently finished school, vocational training, or left the military;
- Your work is typically seasonal and gaps in employment are customary to the industry;
- You may have been laid off from your job; or
- Frequent employment changes are normal in your line of work (sales, contract work, etc.), but you have been consistently employed and maintained a consistent level of income over the past 2 years.

You may want to pay off some debt to lower your debt-to-income ratio.

This step will make it easier to qualify for a mortgage loan if your debt ratio is high. Chances are good that if you're already paying rent, making a mortgage payment will be a smooth transition. Along with the mortgage payment, you're also responsible for real estate taxes and insurance, and if required, mortgage insurance and homeowners dues. Work with us to determine the monthly payment you can afford based on your income and the standard debt-to-income ratio guidelines.

Establish a consistent savings pattern.

Saving money for a down payment, and still having enough reserves left over to cover two months of expenses in the event of an emergency, is typically the most challenging part of buying a home. While sometimes it is difficult, this is a necessary step to ensure you are financially ready to take the plunge into homeownership. Our goal is to help you meet your short-term and long-term financial objectives. We'll help you evaluate exactly when the right time is for you to buy, in order to help you build a secure financial future.

Activity Calendar

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
December		1 Look in the newspaper for a listing of free holiday events. Plan to attend one this month.	2 Plan to spend some one-on-one time with each child this month. Write the dates on your calendar.	3 A rebus is a story that replaces some words with pictures. Make a rebus with your child.	4 Choose a number, then have your child list all the things she can think of that come in that number.	5 Do holidays have you stressed? Share the responsibility with your child. When he helps, he appreciates them even more.
6 Make a TV viewing schedule with your child this week. Use it to plan how you'll both limit your viewing.	7 Plan a week of alphabet dinners—serve foods that start with the same letter. Choose a different letter each day.	8 Today, have your child teach you something she needs to learn for homework. It's a great way to reinforce learning.	9 Teach your child how to make paper snowflakes. Fold paper or coffee filters and cut shapes. Decorate your windows with them.	10 Trace your child's body on a big piece of paper. Then have her research and draw the inside!	11 This holiday season, do something nice for others as a family.	12 Take your child out for breakfast, or make it together this morning.
13 Bake cookies with your child. If you're doubling a recipe, have your child do the math.	14 Visit the library. Check out a book about holiday traditions around the world.	15 When you're in the car, have your child estimate how far it is to your destination. Check using the odometer.	16 Keep track of everything you eat for a day. What changes would you like to make?	17 Play a game of "Concentration" with math flash cards. Problems with the same answer (9 x 2, 15 + 3) make a pair.	18 Plan a late bedtime so everyone can read in bed. Everyone tells what they will be reading before they begin.	19 Think of something nice your child can do for a neighbor or older friend.
20 Set aside time today to work on craft projects with your child. Perhaps she can give these as gifts.	21 Today is the Winter Solstice. Check the paper to see how many hours of daylight there will be today.	22 As school vacation approaches, have your child make a list of things to do when there's nothing to do.	23 Watch a TV program with your child. Make a graph of the time spent on commercials vs. the program.	24 Read a favorite holiday story, poem or religious story with your child.	25 Talk with your child about the very best present she ever received. What made it special?	26 Enjoy some outdoor physical activity as a family today.
27 Have a "backwards day." Put on pajamas after you get up. Eat breakfast food for dinner.	28 Visit the library. Check out a biography about someone interesting from another country.	29 Kids bored? Have them take turns as models, holding a pose while the other children draw or paint what they see.	30 Have your child draw a picture of what he thinks describes and defines "December."	31 Help your child create a time line of the last year.	2009

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
January 2010					1 Using an empty coffee can, have your child make a time capsule for the year just past.	2 Make a list of the best times you had during the last year. Schedule time on the calendar to do them in 2010.
3 Encourage your child to start a diary or journal this year.	4 Visit the library. Help your child check out a book about origami, the Japanese art of paper folding.	5 Make a puzzle with your child. Glue a picture from a magazine onto cardboard. Cut it into puzzle shapes.	6 Tonight at dinner, put a "price" on each item you serve. Have your child figure out the "cost" of the meal.	7 On this day in 1782, the first commercial bank was founded. Start a small savings account for your child.	8 When you're in the car, have your child estimate how far it is to your destination. Check using the odometer.	9 Practice origami with your child.
10 Have a family sing-along. Have each family member share a favorite song!	11 It's National Clean Off Your Desk Day. Make it Clean Off Your Homework Place Day, too!	12 Challenge your child to put away 1 + 3 + 2 + 4 + 1 things in his room.	13 The first radio broadcast was on this date in 1910. Instead of watching TV tonight, listen to the radio.	14 Resist the urge to overschedule your kids. They need "down time" to think, imagine and play.	15 It's National Soup Month. Make soup with your child—and enjoy the book Stone Soup together.	16 Take a walk with your child. Note the seasonal changes.
17 Have a contest. Who can name the most parts of the body? (Organs count, too.)	18 Celebrate Martin Luther King's life. Talk with your child about prejudice.	19 Watch the news with your child. Choose one story and compare it with the newspaper story.	20 Help your child make a fruit salad for dinner tonight. Include one unfamiliar fruit.	21 What's the coldest place in the nation today? The warmest? What's the difference between the two?	22 Feed the birds. Use a notebook to record the kinds of birds you see.	23 Check the newspaper to see if there's a place you and your child can go roller skating or ice skating.
24 Help your child check out a book about a career.	25 Do a crossword puzzle with your child. It's a great way to learn new words.	26 When you're in the store, ask your child to figure how much change you should get from your purchase.	27 It's the birthday of W. A. Mozart. Listen to some classical music with your child today.	28 Write your child's name in a vertical column. Have him use each letter in his name to begin a poem.	29 Have a reading dinner. Ask family members to share something from the books they are reading.	30 Have your child help shop, prepare the dinner and clean up!
31 Have your child write and mail a letter to a friend.
